

As usual, a lobbyist group with ties to one of the largest semi-monopolies in the US is trying to influence lawmakers into giving them even more control of the economic situation. In a time where radio stations routinely sell for millions to tens of millions of dollars, this group wants to limit any competition they see in the market, as if the price of stations doesn't limit it already.

Haven't we been through this with the cable monopoly already. Let free enterprise work and let the satellite radio stations compete for the betterment of all listeners.
